When Mr. Corwine asked me why I enjoy ceramics it puzzled me. I had so many reasons to like ceramics. The feeling of accomplishment after I finished a challenging project, the excitement I have when I've successfully thrown a pot., but I didn't feel like that wasn't a good enough reason. It took a lot of thought but then finally I saw a wolf sculpture my Grandma Pam made and that's when it came to me. The reason I like ceramics is that I have always been drawn to sculptures with detail. From a very young age, all I wanted was to be able to make a piece of art that people would look at in amazement. In sophomore year I got the opportunity to take a ceramics class and I jumped for it. Since then, I have had an amazing experience. Overall, I would say I have found a passion for creating and my motivation comes from my all-time favorite teacher Mr. Corwine. He is one of my biggest supporters and is always pushing me to challenge myself. I plan to continue working with clay in the future and hopefully motivate other people to start their ceramics journey.
