Why I Chose Chloe Costa and Emily Miller

I chose these students because of their dedication to the visual arts. Both of these students are extremely talented, hardworking, and goal oriented. I feel that this exhibition will give them an experience that would be beneficial toward their futures. Their futures are exciting, the possibilities at their fingertips are endless, and their talents deserve to be appreciated.

Artist Statement

Curious Observer, was inspired by my love for the outdoors and my desire to capture personal experiences through painting. Using my own photography, I painted the incredible moment that I shared with an extremely inquisitive owl. I also wanted to capture the late afternoon light shining through the fresh spring forest. Overall, this piece is extremely sentimental and completes my precious memory more accurately than just a photograph.
